Dear Parent / Carer,

RE: Supporting teens with anxiety

With mock exams fast approaching, we wanted to share with you some ideas that may help you to support your child over the coming weeks. It is likely to be a stressful time for our students and we want to ensure they are supported both at school and at home.

The 'toolkit' on the reverse of this letter outlines the key messages we are delivering at Logic through our personal development programme. In addition we would like to inform you of the following:

A little anxiety can be a good thing

Exams can be a stressful time and in many ways this acts as a motivator for students giving them purpose to work harder. It's important they do not bottle up their anxieties and should be encouraged to talk to you and us about how they are feeling so that we can work together to offer support.

Students have access to our coaches

Our personal coaches are available at all points during the exams to talk to students 1-2-1 and help them manage their anxiety and stress. They can also talk to other staff members about specific subject concerns or worries.

Most importantly, communication between home and Logic is key. Do contact us if there are any problems or worries you have and would like support and advice in dealing with. Your child's Prep tutor is the best first contact:

TOOLKIT FOR PARENTS

Exams are often a source of stress for young people. It can lead to low self esteem and, as a result, a poorer performance in their exams. This toolkit explains how parents can help their children cope with exam pressure and achieve their potential, while also protecting their mental health.

• LISTEN

Encourage your child to talk through the concerns they have with you and reassure them that this is completely normal. Everyone will experience exam anxiety - they might just not show it.

•••• PROMOTE A SENSE OF PERSPECTIVE AND DON'T ADD TO THE PRESSURE

Encourage your child to focus on realistic goals of their own, rather than compare themselves critically to their peers or worry about expectations other people have of them. This applies both to the amount of revision they are doing and to the results they feel they should get.

•• SUPPORT REVISION

Helping your child to plan a realistic revision timetable, which breaks the days and subjects down into manageable chunks, will reduce their anxiety by increasing their sense of control and confidence. Talk to them about different revision techniques (see our weekly email). Finally, provide an environment which is distraction free e.g. remove phones.

••••• BE POSITIVE

Planning a special treat and talking about things they are looking forward to after exams can help them feel positive, motivated and less worried.

••• ENCOURAGE HEALTHY ROUTINES

Encourage your child to stick to healthy routines and to make some time for activities they enjoy – such as exercise, doing something creative, getting fresh air, seeing friends in person or online – as these help reduce stress. Make sure they take regular breaks between revision.

••••• STRUGGLING?

Look out for signs that your child is struggling e.g. sleep deprivation, not eating, extreme anxiety, becoming withdrawn or difficulties with concentration. Please speak to us if this is the case as we can help.
